Health

There are many training courses in the health field and that is why we are going to help you choosing.

- Masters in dentistry

Orthodontics, implantology, endodontics, prosthetics...

These are areas that will interest many people, especially once you have obtained your dental diploma. Among our partner universities, some offer these programmes.

- Masters in physiotherapy

Once you have obtained your physiotherapy diploma, it will often be necessary to acquire new skills.

We talked about the master's degree in sports physiotherapy at the Real Madrid University School. But it's not just about sport.
There are specializations for treating pregnant women, in neurological physiotherapy...

- Masters and specialized online courses in health

There are a wide variety of training courses in the health field. You must be fluent in Spanish and sometimes English. And very often, you also need to have a "Grado" diploma in the health sector.

Engineering

Spain is a leading country in engineering. And this is due to the presence of high-quality professionals.

Just like for architecture, a master's degree is required to obtain the title of engineer. This diploma allows you to subsequently work as an engineer. This is the case for aeronautics, telecommunications, bridges and roads, industrial engineering, etc.
Contact us by email if you wish to do a qualifying master's degree.

If you want to open up your international employment prospects, a master's degree in Spain will be a very good business card.

Our selection:

- UEC: Master in Renewable Energy
- UEM: Master in automotive engineering
- UEM: Master in Logistics
